ABSORBLETS

"My husband wants me to get a new hat just like Mrs. Von Fliers'."

"Well?"

"I'm going to make my old hat do."

—Exchange.

Mrs. Brooke—Have you any faith in life insurance?

Mrs. Lynne—Yes, indeed; I've realized one hundred thousand dollars from two husbands, and they weren't very good, either.—Judge.

Mother—There were two apples in the cupboard, Tommy, and now there is only one. How's that?

Tommy (who sees no way out of it)—Well, ma, it was so dark in there I didn't see the other.—Judge.

His Mother—Willie, why are you twisting your face and squirming around in that ridiculous manner?

Little Willie—Mamma, I just can't help harboring the mental delusion that my back itches!—Chicago Tribune.

The Girl—Isn't this play tiresome? The Young Man—It's an awful bore. But there is no use, Miss Pinkie, of your trying to conceal a yawn with that fairy little hand of yours; it can't half cover—er—I mean—that is—Exchange.

She (angrily)—That chimney does beat me!

He (mournfully)—Yes, I wish I dared do what this chimney does?

She (sharply)—What?

He (meekly)—Smoke in spite of you.—Baltimore American.

Dr. Dryasdust—My dear sir, I have noticed you in our church for the last few weeks, but you are a stranger to me. Have you just joined us?

Stranger—No, sir. I came on the advice of my doctor, who is treating me for insomnia, and who is a member of your congregation.—Baltimore American.

An exact definition of a gentleman has been tried many times, never perhaps with entire satisfactory results. Little Sadie had never heard of any of the various definitions, but she managed to throw a gleam of light on the subject, albeit one touched with unconscious cynicism. The word was in the spelling lesson and I said:

"Sadie, what is a gentleman?"

"Please, ma'am," she answered, "a gentleman's a man you don't know very well."—Woman's Home Companion.

Transient—Kindly tell me whether this ticket will allow me a stopover here?

Station Agent—It depends What do you want to stop for?

Transient—To visit some rather distant relatives of mine, the Jinkses.

Station Agent—Then, you'll have plenty of time. This ticket is good for the next train.

Transient—See here! Do you know how long I intend to stop?

Station Agent—Not exactly; but I know the Jinkses!—Puck.

AT THE THEATRE

CORINNE, AS SHE TAKES A LOOK AT HERSELF IN BOY'S CLOTHES.

Corinne, perhaps one of the most popular comedienne on the American stage, is now under the management of the Shuberts and will be seen here next Tuesday night for the first time under their management in "Mlle. Mischief," a Viennese operetta by Ziehr and Rosenfeld. Apart from Corinne's presence in the cast, perhaps the best thing to recommend the piece is the excellent production that the Shuberts have given it, in addition to the brilliancy of the score. The music is of a very high order, easily taking rank with that of the other famous Viennese operettas which have been done in this country within the past two years. Among the musical hits may be mentioned the trio "Verily, Merri-ly," "To the Regiment We'll Go," "The Army Corps," "The Song of the Drummer Boy," "Sweethearts," "Every Hour Brings its Flower," "Ladies, Beware" and "Le Couer de Ninon."

The story of "Mlle. Mischief" is that of a model Rosette, who although in love with her employer, the artist Andre Claire, decides to leave him for a day, and, disguised as a boy, enter the local barracks. She wagers the artist that she can remain in disguise under the scrutiny of the soldiers for twenty-four hours without detection. Her sweetheart takes particular pains that she does not secure the necessary attire but the opportunity presents itself when Freddie Meline, the half-witted son of a wealthy manufacturer, comes to the studio to take lessons. Rosette helps herself to his clothes, steals his purse and presents herself to the recruiting sergeant and is immediately accepted.

It happens that elder Meline, a gay old bld., has been secretly making love to the model, so that when Rosette, in order to escape the rigorous duties of the barracks, confesses to a lieutenant that she is not a boy but the daughter of the manufacturer, the trouble starts, not only for the old man but for everyone else concerned. The lieutenant hastily summons the manufacturer, so that he may rescue his daughter, but when Meline arrives his actions are so suspicious he is arrested as a spy. Claire, the artist, coming in search of his sweetheart, is also arrested. Two acts are required to straighten out the tangled skein which the plotting adventures weaves.

In Corinne's support are the following: Charles Meyer, F. Cutler, Louise Brunelle, Frank Farrington, Alfred Robe, Bonnie Farley, and Kitty Baldwin.

How to Cure a Cold

Be as careful as you can, you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. For sale by all dealers.

A woman can admire her husband because she ought to; a man can admire a woman who isn't his wife because he ought not to.

Cold Weather Advice

to all is to beware of coughs and colds on the chest; as neglected they readily lead to pneumonia, consumption or other pulmonary troubles. Just as soon as the cough appears treat it with Ballard's Horehound Syrup, the standard cure of America. Use as directed—perfectly harmless. A cure and preventive for all diseases of the lungs. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Center Block Depot Drug Co.

When a man holds a girl's hand in the dark she can think he is talking poetry if it is about how long he likes his eggs boiled.

C. R. Kluger, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." O. G. Schaefer and Red Cross Drug Co.
